

ABSTRACT

A simple, speedy and sensitive method of detecting HIV-RNA using an oligonucleotide which can bind to an intramolecularly free region of the genomic RNA of HIV-1
5 at relatively low and constant temperatures (at 35°C to 50°C, preferably at 41°C) as an oligonucleotide primer for use in amplification of a nucleic acid.

BEST AVAILABLE COPY